Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Diane Dickey, Batesville, Miss., Miss Linda Land of Dallas, Miss.

Mrs. Russell Ray Mitchell In an evening ceremony January 1 at the First Baptist Church Miss Martha Lenoe Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rowman Andrews became the bride of Russell Ray Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Russell Mitchell of Hope, Arkansas.

The pastor, Rev. Harry Kellogg, officiated at the double ring rites in a candlelight setting. A center tree candelabra with smaller ones on either side was banked with greenery.

Music was presented by Mrs. Marvin Terrell, Jr., organist and Mrs. Larry Grantham of Clinton, Miss., soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk peab de sole. The moulded basque bodice was fashioned with a side oval neckline and long tightly fitted sleeve extending to petal points over her hands. The controlled bell shaped skirt enhanced with appliques of imported re-embroidered Alencon lace traced with tiny seed pearls was complemented by a wide chapel length train marked at the waistline by a small shaped bow. Her heirloom lace panel mounted over a circle of English net fell gently framing her face and extended the length of her train. She carried a bouquet of white Stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister Miss Kay Andrews. Bridesmaids were Mesdames Joe Thompson of Houston, Spencer Gilbert of Alexandria, Virginia, Calvin Broome of Hampton, Virginia, Bradley Bakeroff Jackson, George Shaddock of Pascagoula, Miss., Larry Grantham of Clinton, Miss., Bob Lassetter of Mountain Home and Miss Billye Dell Pyron of Jackson.

The attendants were identical attired in floor length models of white skirted crepe and bodices of gold velvet. The waistline was of Empire design trimmed with a tailored gold satin bow. Each wore a circlet of gold velvet from which fell a short veil of illusion, and carried a bouquet of gold grapes gashioned around feathered astors.

Mr. Mitchell was attended by his father Ivy Mitchell as best man. Groomsman and ushers were Billy Mitchell, brother of the groom of Hope, Glen Calhoun of Hope and Don La Fantasie Searcy, Ark., brothers in law of the groom, Bob Beel of Houston, David Campbell, Garth Nash and Dale Taylor all of Dallas, and Vernon Almon cousin of the bride of Batesville, Miss.

Mrs. Andrews wore a blue crepe and lace gown and Mrs. Mitchell chose a gold crepe and lace with matching accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Indianola Country Club. The floral decorations were in bridal white and the bridal table, overlaid with an imported linen and lace cloth held the five tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candelabra.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Clyde Sullivan and Mrs. James Dickey of Batesville, Miss., aunts of the bride. Also assisting at the reception were Mrs. Roy Reid, McGhee, Ark. Mrs. Clayton Sullivan, Hazelhurst, Miss., Mrs. Green Reed, Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Charles Wilson. Miss Ann Sullivan cousin of the bride presided at the bride's book. Tea girls were:

Homemakers H D Club

The Victory Extension Homemakers Club had its first meeting of the year on January 5 in the home of Mrs. Cecil Smith. The club president, Mrs. James Ellis called the meeting to order and gave the Eye Opener, "Lipstick Personality." Mrs. Dexter Alford led the group in singing "The More We Get Together."

"Hope for the Tempted" was the devotion based on 1 Cor. 10: 1-3, and the hostess presented it followed with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Nine members answered the roll call with "The First Thing I Notice About A Person." In the absence of the Human Relations leader, the president presented the Lesson, "As Others See You."

During a brief business meeting, new leaders were named for the year in the various divisions. The club voted to give $5 to the March of Dimes, and names of Secret Pals were drawn. One new member, Mrs. Travis England, was welcomed.

Joan Gregory of Henderson, Ky. and Mesdames Dale Taylor, Garth Nash, William Rhodes all of Dallas. Glen Calhoun, Jr. of Hope, and Don La Fantasie of Searcy, Ark., sisters of the groom, Billy Mitchell, Hope, sister-in-law of the groom, GW Neal, Greenville, Miss, James Wiseman, Memphis, Samuel Brocato, Joseph Stokes, Leland, Miss., and Mickey Thompson, Selby, Miss. Rice girls were Donna La Fantasie niece of the groom and Donna Boykin, Cindy Boykin, Pamela Dickey, Angela Dickey and Joy Wilson.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride wore a three piece yellow and navy suit with navy accessories.

to the club, and she was the winner of the Thrift Garment.

The hostess served frozen punch, cookies, and tidbits to 18. These included one guest, Mrs. Robert Glass of Emmet and five children. The February meeting will be with Mrs. Clayborne Rowe.

Duplicate Bridge Club

Winners Night was held by the Hope Duplicate Bridge Club on Wednesday, January 5 at the Hope Country Club with 5 tables of players. Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr. were the first place couple, and Mrs. Paul Cornish of Texarkana and Paul Warmack of Illinois were second.

Mrs. Floyd Bell and Mrs. Sidney Lee, both of Texarkana, took third place. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Broach tied for fourth place with Mrs. P. A. Lewis and Mike Kelly.

Circle 2 WSCS Meet

Circle 2 W.S.C.S. of the First Methodist church held its January meeting in the home of Mrs. R. T. Barlow and Mrs. J. D. Welch.

Mrs. C. D. Lester presided in the absence of the chairman and urged all members to attend the joint meeting with the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Mrs. R. L. Broach presented the first study of a series based on the book of Acts. The second will be given in February by Mrs. Otto Teague, and the third in March by Mrs. Herbert Stephens.

During the social hour the hostesses invited the nine members into the dining room where coffee and cakes were served from a beautifully decorated tea table.

Coming and Going Births

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Emerson of Mexico City, formerly of Hope were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Deloney of Little Rock were recent guests of Arch Deloney and the Misses Marie and Nannie Purkins.

Mrs. Melvin Redd returned home this week after being a patient in a Memphis hospital and spending a period of recuperation at her parents' home in Harrisburg.

Sp-6 and Mrs. Thelton E. Moss of Mannheim, Germany announce the arrival of a son, Steven Edward, on December 28th. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Moss of DeWalls Bluff, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Huckabee of Hope are the maternal grandparents. They have one other child, a daughter, Sharon Renee.

Wine consumption of the average Italian amounts to 31 gallons a year.

More Negroes Are Getting State Jobs

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

Gov. Orval E. Faubus' campaign to open more responsible state government jobs to Negroes is bearing fruit.

An Associated Press survey of major state agencies shows that about 90 Negroes now have jobs above the cook and bottle-washer classifications.

And the agency heads contacted said their departments are ready to hire more if qualified Negroes can be found.

"We need Negro nurses," said Dr. Floyd Basley, assistant state health officer. "But we can't find any."

The department has five Negro public health nurses. It has another Negro working in a secretarial position.

Commissioner A. W. Ford said the Education Department has had two Negroes on its professional staff and one as a secretary for about 10 years.

Ford said the department has hired about 10 additional Negroes in the last couple of years.

Another 20 Negroes work for the Rehabilitation Service, which operates under the Education Department. This group includes 15 professionals—counselors, vocational instructors and teachers—and five secretaries.

The Employment Security Division has two Negroes working in its central office and 18 in field offices, according to Administrator J. L. Bland.

One of the two central office employees is Tyrone Green, whose job as minority groups representative is considered a staff-level position. The other is his secretary.

The ESD setup the job Green now holds about four years ago. He works principally with members of his own race.

Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips said his department employs 10 Negroes, some as welfare visitors and others as child welfare consultants.

Phillips said the department stood ready to hire more Negroes if qualified Negroes present themselves for employment.

"We get our employees from the Merit System list," Phillips said. "We always have."

QUILL JAILED—Mike Quill, chief of the striking Transit Workers Union, tips his hat as he enters jail in New York City. Quill, arrested for contempt of court, has said he would rather "rot in jail" than obey a court injunction banning the strike which has paralyzed the city's subway and bus systems.

Ford said that the Education Department is trying to achieve a racial balance on its staff and that more Negroes would be hired as vacancies occur.

Ford also noted that federal money to expand Education Department Services is not available and that Negroes will be hired in any staff expansion.

The survey did not count Negroes, regardless of responsibility, at all-Negro institutions, such as the Boys' Training School for the Negro Blind and Deaf, McRae Sanatorium and Arkansas AM&N College.

Neither did the count include the hundreds of Negroes employed as cooks, janitors and orderlies in state institutions nor those employed as laborers by the state Highway Department.

Forest Fires in State Are Eyed Closely

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A wisp of smoke appears on the horizon. The man in the forest tower sights it and pinpoints its location.

It may be a campfire. It may be a farmer burning brush. But if there is doubt in the towerman's mind, he doesn't wait to act.

The key to success in fighting forest fires, says Ranger Jim Martin, head of public relations for the state Forestry Commission, is quick discovery.

"If we get there early enough, four or five men can handle a fire that it will take hundred to put out just a little later," Martin said.

To facilitate quick discovery the commission's 275 rangers man 102 towers in wooded areas of the state.

And they take heart from the report of forest fire loss in 1965. Despite a dry year, when rainfall was more than an inch below normal, the state lost only 39,091 acres in 2,867 fires.

That compares to a 20-year average of 3,891 fires and 45,980 acres lost.

The rainfall situation was not as bad as it appeared. Precipitation was fairly well spread through the year.

"It doesn't take much rain to hold the fire danger down if it comes at the right time," Martin said.

What the Forestry Commission fears most is a long dry spell that lasts through the time hardwood trees turn brown in the fall.

A rainfall shortage in the summer, when trees are green, presents little danger.

The state had a drought in the fall of 1962 and recorded its worst year for forest fires—237,720 acres lost to 7,326 fires.

The dollar loss from forest fires can only be estimated. Martin said that timber actually destroyed often is worth as little as $20. But, he said, take that timber and convert it into finished wood products—a table, chair or bed—and it's worth far more than that.

The commission calculates the loss for a burned-over acre at $2,000. That includes the loss of wildlife, loss of recreational value and other intangible factors.

Last year was a "good" year for forest fires because the loss was low. The commission got through the year without a major forest fire outbreak of the kind which keeps rangers fighting day and night for a week or more.

"We have two goals through," Martin said. "Reduce the size of the average fire and reduce the number of fires. One fire which destroys 100 acres and 100 fires which destroy an acre each are the same thing to us."

The real tragedy, Martin said, is that 99 per cent of the fires are man-caused and almost half of them were set intentionally.

Woods arson is a felony, just like burning down a building, but the violator is hard to catch.

The commission did not get one conviction for arson last year, but it did get 128 arrests for misdemeanors such as burning brush without a permit and leaving campfires unattended.

Most fires caused by arson, Martin said, are set for spite. One landowner is made at another. One landowner employee wants to destroy the timber of a man who fired him.

"But we've had cases where there are several generations of woods arsonists in the same family," Martin said. "A man sets fire to the woods because his daddy set fire to them and his granddaddy before him."

New Yorkers Still Without Trains, Subs

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP)—More people than ever set their alarm clocks for milkman's hours today and hurried to work along darkened, rain-swept streets. Bargaining to end the transit strike meanwhile reached the hard stage.

Many who had been walking in tried driving. Others looked at the brooding skies, and went back to bed to catch up on some of the sleep lost since bus and subway workers struck New Year's Day.

The only ray of sunshine was that the negotiations had produced the first hopeful sign at a marathon session that ended only hours before the morning migration.

Emerging from the talks between the Transit Authority and the striking unions, Mayor John V. Lindsay reported: "There has been some movement, nevertheless the gap remains wide between them. New offers have been made."

Lindsay declined to predict if this could lead to settlement of the 6-day-old strike, but he described the new offers as "a very important move."

Rain slowed the incoming traffic today and cars were bumper-to-bumper on many major arteries.

Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes said, "Some people will use the weather conditions as an excuse to stay home, and I hope they will."

Negotiators for the Transit Authority and the striking Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union, both AFL-CIO, plan to get back to work the first thing today.

Lindsay, vowing to stick with the negotiators until they come to terms, said he would join them as soon as he cleared up some city business.

In New York's five boroughs, and from Connecticut to New Jersey, people bound for work cut short their sleep to face another long day of fighting the traffic and crowded railroad facilities.

One thing that has been contributing to the prevention of chaos in the strike has been that the morning and evening rush hours have been spread out over a longer period of time.

Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes announced a plan Wednesday for staggered working hours in lower Manhattan. He divided the area into four sections and asked employers to voluntarily begin letting workers off at intervals between 3 and 5 p.m.

The New York Stock Exchange and the American Exchange said they would close trading 90 minutes early.

Lindsay joined the negotiations Wednesday for the first time since the transit workers walked out New Year's Day five hours after he took office.

"The issues are very, very complicated," he said. "I am satisfied from my own personal observation that both parties were in hard bargaining."

He refused to say what offers had been made by the opposing sides. "That was desired by both parties," he said. Previously, the unions had demanded $216 million in higher wages and benefits and the Transit Authority had offered a $29-million package.

Lindsay said he had no idea whether Michael J. Quill, head of the TWU, had been consulted during the day by the union's second-line negotiators.

Quill collapsed at the civil jail Tuesday shortly after he and eight other union officials were arrested for refusing to end the strike. State Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller had found them guilty of contempt for calling out the workers in defiance of a court injunction.

Quill was reported resting well at Bellevue Hospital.

Johnson's 'Right-Arm' Arrested

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bobby Baker—the man Lyndon B. Johnson once called "my strong right arm"—has been charged with a tangled, three-year skein of financial wrongdoing carrying grave criminal penalties.

A federal grand jury ended a 15-month investigation by charging the former secretary to Senate Democrats with fraud, tax evasion, grand larceny, conspiracy and illegal transportation of stolen money.

The crimes set forth in the nine-count indictment, returned Wednesday in U. S. District Court, could mean a maximum prison sentence of 48 years and $47,000 in fines for the soft-spoken, 37-year-old lawyer-tycoon.

Baker was reached by telephone Wednesday night at "Bobby Baker's Carousal," the plush motel he owns at the seaside resort of Ocean City, Md. He calmly referred all questions to his lawyers—who said "no comment."

Baker's arraignment is set for Jan. 20.

According to the grand jury, Baker's alleged criminal activity began in mid-1962 and continued through last Oct. 18—two years after he had quit his Senate post under fire, become a headline personality, and been the subject of a stormy, name-calling investigation by a Senate committee.

The grand jury did not—as the Senate Rules Committee had recommended—indict Baker for conflict-of-interest violations. But it did charge that he:

—Understated his income by $54,559 for 1961-62 and evaded $23,091 in income taxes for those years;

—Conspired with a Washington coal lobbyist, Wayne L. Bromley, to camouflage large portions of his 1963-64 income as legal fees to Bromley, "secretly and surreptitiously" taking the money himself;

—Fraudulently obtained $33,000 from a Los Angeles savings and loan officer, illegally carried it across state lines and failed to report it as taxable income;

—Helped prepare a false tax return for Bromley to conceal income that went to Baker; and —Took by "felonious conversion," or theft, $87,000 from two Los Angeles savings and loan executives, in each case failing to report much of it as taxable income.

The grand jury also indicted a former lieutenant governor of Nevada, Clifford Jones, on three counts of perjury for allegedly false statements Jones made to the jury last March. Jones' indictment carries a maximum penalty of 15 years and $6,000.

Jones and Bromley are named as coconspirators in the conspiracy count against Baker. They are not defendants, however.

Baker was Democratic secretary when Johnson, then a Texas senator, was Democratic leader. The two worked closely together and Johnson once described Baker as "one of my most trusted, most loyal and most competent friends."

Hailing Baker on another occasion as "my strong right arm," Johnson said Baker was "the last man I see at night, the first one I see in the morning."

The White House made no comment on the indictment. Johnson has refused to discuss the Baker case publicly since he entered the presidency.

Rain Damages Faulkner Bridges

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—County Judge T. D. Reedy says recent heavy rains washed out between 25 and 30 bridges in Faulkner County and damaged other bridges and roads.

He said the heaviest damage appeared to be the Greenbrier area north of here. He said temporary structures would replace the damaged bridges because of lack of funds.

Nervousness Can Interfere With Digestion

You have often noticed complete loss of appetite when excited, tired worried or under some emotional strain. Nature does not want you to eat at such times as the nervous disturbance has upset the delicate nerve mechanism which controls the chemistry and process of digestion.

Interference with the transmission of nerve impulses by a misplaced spinal bone will likewise affect digestion and in turn be responsible for many digestive disturbances such as gas pains, bloating, heartburn, nausea, vomiting, and ulcers.

The controlling force carried by nerves from the brain to all parts of the body is generally spoken of as nature, and may be cut off by misplaced vertebrae. The Chiropractor's examination is largely confined to the spine because he wants to find what is preventing nature from curing. The Chiropractor locates and removes the cause of nerve interference, thereby allowing nature to correct many types of digestive disorders.

Home Gardener's Greenhouse

A plastic bag and a windowsill are the key items of a simple home gardening method for rooting cuttings. It borrows the practice widely used by nurserymen of covering cuttings with plastic sheets. But for the windowsill greenhouse, plastic freezer bags from the kitchen shelf will serve the purpose. Some recommended times for rooting: Conifers—January, early February. Garden flowers—late May through August. Flowering shrubs—mid-June to mid-August. Broadleaved evergreens—mid-June to mid-August. Foliage plants—any time of year.

Place enough mixture for four inches rooting "soil" in hole-free, two-quart plastic bag and firm gently by hand.

Cuttings four to six inches long are taken from a plant with a sharp knife or pruning shears. Cut should be straight across the base and leaves should be removed from lower third to half of the cutting.

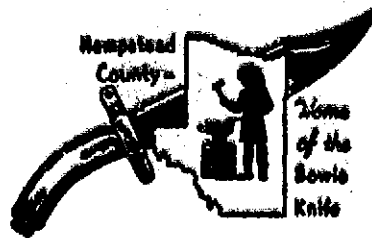

Slice inch-long sliver along side of cutting ending at base, dip end in root hormone, insert two to three inches deep in "soil" and wet foliage.

Seal bag with rubber band and place on a northern windowsill until roots have formed.

Some Points of Trouble in the Offset Process

We expect better results in today's edition, marking our switch permanently to offset printing, than were shown in the original test run on the new 20-page Fairchild 475 rotary color press Dec. 29—but there are points of trouble in any new and unfamiliar process that won't be cleared up until The Star staff has gained more experience.

For instance, while the public seemed to like the test issue of Dec. 29 some serious faults were obvious to trained newspaper people. One of the greatest faults was the poor quality of reproduction of local photographs—the very job on which offset correctly done is superb.

I am referring to the full-page aerial photograph of Hope which appeared on Page One of the Dec. 29 offset issue, which picture was made by Clyde Davis of Shipley Studio in a plane piloted by Bert Rettig; and the two pictures in our shop on Page 2, which this writer made. Our original pictures were O. K.—but in the offset process all original pictures are rephotographed to get insert negatives for the big newspaper page-negatives—and here's where we ran into the trouble that plagues all papers when they first convert to offset printing.

It's a technical matter that I will try to explain. Two entirely different photographic processes are involved in offset. Making the full-page "line negative" is a cinch. A "line negative" works on type, cartoons, sketches of dresses in an advertisement—or any kind of copy in which there is merely a black line against a white background.

But photographs are more complicated than "line copy." Photographs have gray areas that are neither fully black nor fully white. Therefore they are called "half-tones." "Line copy" is clear, like the picture window in your living room; but "half-tone copy" must be screened in order to allow the ink on the press to reproduce the gray areas. Therefore your problem is to rephotograph pictures to get a negative that will harmonize with the big line negative when it is printed down on the aluminum plate that goes on the press.

In the Dec. 29 test run we followed the normal procedure, which is to blank out the picture spaces in the line negative, leaving "windows" in it, then make screened negatives of the pictures and insert them into the "windows" of the big negative. We missed out on the screened negatives, and in the finished page they printed too dark.

For today's offset issue we tried an alternate process. Instead of producing screened negatives for local pictures we produced screened prints. That is, when printing the negative on the enlarger we placed a 100-line process screen over the photographic paper, transferring the screen to the finished print. This print went into the paste-up of the whole newspaper page and the page was shot as a single "line negative"—eliminating the "windows" and the double-negative process.

That the idea should work is perfectly clear because the screened prints of the national news pictures were universally good in the test run of Dec. 29. But we won't know how we came out on this until we see today's edition of the new press. The screened prints I am talking about in today's paper are the two 4-column pictures of our shop on Page One, and a 2-column picture on the society page. If they turn out well we are over the hump. And if they don't we'll have an Eastman Kodak expert in here to advise us next week—for offset printing now is something we have to live with.

Programs for Older Persons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas has been allocated $76,000 for the development of comprehensive programs for older people.

Commissioner on Aging William D. Bechlin announced the approval of the Arkansas plan today along with plans of other states. The money will be used to develop community programs, services and opportunities for citizens 65 and over.

Last Run From Lead Hill; Makeup in Metal Ends as Star Goes to Pasteup and Offset

PICTURE SHOWS GENE ALLEN, LINOTYPE operator, rolling a "turtle" with a newspaper page made up in metal to the old press for the last time Thursday as The Star ended letterpress operations and switched permanently to offset on its new rotary color press which produced today's edition. New advertisements and complete newspaper pages are pasted up from proofs. Each page is photographed by a 19x23-inch camera, and two pages at a time are exposed onto a sensitized aluminum plate that goes on the new press. The Star is making the conversion to offset with its own letterpress crew, printers becoming camera operators, plate-makers, and pressmen — it requiring the whole crew to man the new press.

THE OLD PRESS PHOTOGRAPHED ON ITS LAST run Thursday. This Duplex Model A single-action flatbed, serial 1311, purchased new the winter of 1928-29, has produced The Star for nearly 40 years. It now is the property of Mac

Dale, Sr., and Mac Dale, Jr., owners of the weekly Lawrence County Press, Monticello, Miss., and will be moved there the last week of this month. At the controls is George (Boots) Smith, Jr., Star pressman for 15 years.

Transit Strike Negotiations Seem Stalled

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz returns to Washington today after a joint effort with Mayor John V. Lindsay brought reports of movement to New York's stalled transit crisis negotiations.

Wirtz, who had conferred with Lindsay and the strike mediators into the early morning hours, will brief President Johnson on the strike situation, approaching the end of its first week.

Lindsay returned to city hall at 7:30 a.m. and renewed his effort to end the walkout of bus and subway workers. The negotiations were described as having reached the intense stage.

City traffic built up early and heavy, but Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes said he did not look for a repeat of Thursday's rain-complicated jam.

One immediate result of the conference between Lindsay and Wirtz—Coupled with an appeal from New York's labor leaders—could be the release from custody of Michael J. Quill and other officials of the striking transit unions.

Lindsay hinted that such a move is under consideration by the Transit Authority. The authority had them jailed Tuesday when they refused to end the strike.

The conference between the two officials followed a daylong, rain-soaked traffic tangle Thursday described as the worst in the city's history. The economic losses and the turmoil created by the strike mounted.

The extent of Wirtz' contribution to a solution was not announced, but the secretary made it plain that he brought no pledge of federal funds from Johnson.

"I want to settle that question with respect to federal money," he said. "As far as I know there is none."

Lindsay and Wirtz came out of the meeting at 1:15 a.m. today. The mayor reported "some movement" in negotiations to end the walkout of bus and subway workers, now in its seventh day.

Afterwards, the city's three mediators, who had also met with Lindsay and Wirtz, returned to the Americana Hotel to continue negotiations.

At 3:30 a.m., the negotiations broke off and Theodore Kheel, one of the mediators and a veteran labor troubleshooter, said: "The sessions were very intense. What we are trying to do now is put the pieces together and get a contract from this."

Harry Van Arsdale Jr., head of the million-member AFL-CIO City Labor Council, met briefly Thursday night with Lindsay and Wirtz. He then talked to officials of the Transit Authority and officers of the striking Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union, both AFL-CIO.

He appealed for the release of Quill and eight other union members jailed for defying a state court injunction against the strike. Quill, who collapsed shortly after his arrest, is confined to Bellevue Hospital, where his condition was described Thursday as "serious but no worse."

Secretary Wirtz flew off New York Thursday night within hours after Lindsay telephoned President Johnson for help in settling the crippling strike. Up to then, Lindsay had been in continuous contact with Wirtz by telephone.

No new money offers have been discussed by Lindsay. The last announced figures were a $216-million demand by the union and the offer of a $29-million package over a two-year period by the authority.

Project to Add Ten Counties

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas has applied to Washington to have an additional 10 counties included in the job training program among welfare clients and low income families.

State Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips said Thursday that the counties are adjacent to those already in the program, but he declined to name them. There are now about 25 projects with 2,000 persons enrolled under way in Arkansas.

Dock Operators Are Complaining

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Col. Frank P. Bane of the Army Engineers has asked Bull Shoals Reservoir dock operators to furnish him financial statements showing their business declined.

The boat dock operators met with Bane here Thursday and said they needed a reduction in rent to stay in business because of declining business.

They pay an average of 4.5 per cent of their gross income in rent annually. Leases are renegotiated every five years and the latest negotiations came in 1962 and 1963.

Bane told the operators he would seek authority from the secretary of the army to renegotiate their leases in 1966 if financial statements showed their business was declining.

Rowe to Lead Bureau Drive for Members

Cold Front Is Coming to State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The cold front expected to drop temperatures in Arkansas into the teens Thursday night failed to materialize, the U.S. Weather Bureau says, because the front extended itself too rapidly and combined with a high pressure area over Texas.

Temperatures remained mostly normal although slightly cooler.

Overnight low temperatures were in the mid 20s to mid 30s, with a low temperatures of 20 degrees recorded by both Calico Rock and Gilbert.

Thursday's highs were mostly in the 40s and 50s, but Texarkana had a high of 65. Saturday's highs are forecast to be in the mid 40s to high 50s.

Tonight's lows are expected to be mostly in the 20s and low 30s.

Police College

CHICAGO (AP)—Police Capt. Patrick V. Needham, 32, will be the first American to attend England's Bramshill Police College. Needham, director of records and communications for the Chicago Police Department, will leave Friday for England to enroll for a six-month course. The school was founded in 1958 to train top level British police officers.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Constable Don Smith of Midvale, Utah, served a resisting arrest warrant in Salt Lake City, but it wasn't easy.

Police said Smith's man provoked a fist fight with him, threatened to throw a fire extinguisher at him, swung an ax at him and took him for a cross-town ride in the bed of his pickup truck before surrendering. Smith returned to his own car to find it damaged by vandals.
